REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

As required by law the school board submits its annual report.

We were very fortunate in being able to secure teachers of a high grade, resulting in a marked and satisfactory progress in the schools.

Four teachers were employed. All, except one, teachers of experience; but all efficient and faithful, each working hard for the best interests of the school over which she presided.

Three schools have been maintained simultaneously during the year. In the spring, schools were held in Nos. 1, 4 and 5. In the fall and winter, in Nos. 1, 2 and 4, the scholars in No. 5 being brought to No. 2.

We endeavored to run the schools in a way conducive to "the greatest good to the greatest number."

To know just what is for the best interest of the rural schools has come to be an intricate problem. It cannot always be gauged by dollars and cents.

There were twenty-eight weeks of school, divided into a spring, fall and winter term, except in No. 4, where there were but twenty-five weeks, divided into a spring term and a fall term of fifteen consecutive weeks, as we were unable to secure a teacher for that school until the other schools had been in session four weeks, and it was thought best, on account of quite severe winter weather prevailing at that time, to close all the schools at the same time.

We regret to note the absence of some pupils of No. 1 school the entire winter term, while some others attended only twenty-four days in eighteen weeks, and also the great blot on the record of school No. 4, made by so many tardy marks. Parents are responsible for this, and should co-operate with the teacher in maintaining a good school by compelling a regular and punctual attendance of their children. Of course, if sick they are excusable.

There is no parent of common intelligence but desires the best possible education for his or her child, and when we consider that the greater per cent of our youth acquire their education in the common public schools, we see how necessary it is that they avail themselves of all their privileges. But while we emphasize the necessity of regular attendance, that is not all. A scholar may have a record of perfect attendance, yet, unless instead of dawdling away his time, he applies himself to study and tries to learn, he will never make much progress.

New language books were purchased in the fall, exchanging all the old grammars in sufficiently good condition in part payment for the same. There is great need of new readers and arithmetics, many of the latter being in a very bad condition. There is also need of some new maps.
